He enrolled in Michigan State College and graduated in 1931, with a Bachelor's Degree in Dairy Manufacturing. Following graduation, he was employed by McDonald Dairy Company of Flint, Michigan until August, 1934.

From 1934 until March, 1978, he was an active officer, in various capacities, with Schlimme Dairy Company as well as being the original founder.

Schlimme Dairy was a mix manufacturer of ice milk, shake mixes and ice cream mixes. Also, the Dairy handled non-fat dry milk power, whey powder, and dry sugar on a brokerage basis. During the life of Schlimme Dairy, sales continued to increase each year, and during 1976 until 1978, the sales and profits were at an all time high.

Mr. Coon was active in Kiwanis Club of Northwest Detroit and had a record of 25 years of perfect attendance. This indicates the dependability of this man.

His latest outside activity is helping start a once a month luncheon for those retired, or soon to be retired, from the dairy industry. This luncheon is held on the third Tuesday of each month. There are no dues, regulations, or rules to belong, as long as you are retired from the dairy industry, be there at 12:00 noon. At the present time, the meeting is held at Cregar's Pickwick House on Grand River and Outer Drive, Detroit, Michigan.

Donald G. Fatchett served as president of Milk Marketing, Inc., a regional milk marketing cooperative covering parts of eight states, from the time it was formed in 1978 until his retirement from the board at the end of December 1979.

An active dairy farmer near Blissfield, Michigan, since 1935, Don was elected to the board of directors of the Northwest Cooperative Sales Association in Toledo in 1948. He was elected president of NCSA in 1958. Then in 1970, when NCSA became a part of the merged cooperative called MILK, Inc., he was also elected president of MILK, Inc. and served until the formation of MMI, through consolidation of five cooperatives in 1978.

Again he was elected president of the new cooperative, Milk Marketing, Inc.

Don was a director of the National Milk Producers Federation in Washington, D.C. and served on the executive committee. At the NMPF annual meeting this past November, Don was given a special plaque denoting him an honorary director for life.

In the areas of milk promotion, Don served on the board of the United Dairy Industry Association (UDIA) and was treasurer of Dairy Research, Inc. He also served on the board of the National Dairy Council and the American Dairy Association. He served on the Federal Order 36 Advertising and Promotion committee from its inception.

Fatchett was also active in other local cooperative such as the Michigan Artificial Breeders Association, the Blissfield Cooperative Company, which is a part of the Michigan Elevator Exchange, and is secretary-treasurer of the Ogden and Riga Mutual Insurance Company. He was also president of the Farm Excess of Loss Association, a statewide organization of mutual insurance companies formed to help spread the insurance risk.

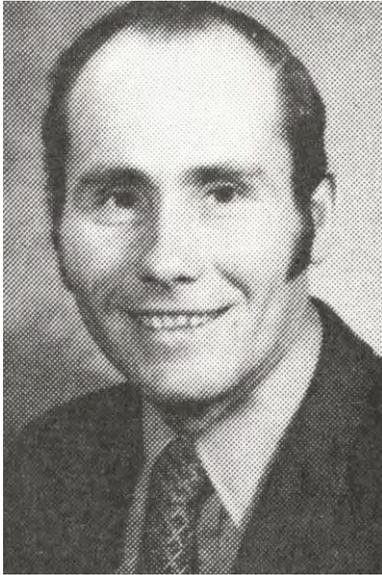

Don Fatchett is a dedicated and tireless worker who has given his best to the cause of the dairy farmer in his native state of Michigan and nationally. It was in recognition for these efforts that he was given a “Cooperative Career Award” last fall by the National Cooperative Month Coordinating Committee.

Jim also served on the Brown City Board of Education.

On June 30, 1977 Jim Frey died in a tragic automobile accident as he was returning home from an Animal Breeders and Select Sires show and sale in Columbus Ohio with Ken Voelker. We in the dairy industry will greatly miss the wise counsel of Jim Frey.

JAMES GILDER, SR.

A graduate of Wayland High School, James Gilder assumed the responsibility of operating the family farm in 1939 when his father suffered a heart attack. From that time on, he demonstrated great resourcefulness and sound judgment in making a smooth transition from the family farm concept to a modern agri-business operation while maintaining a genuine concern for the community. Through good times and bad, including a devastating fire in 1968, Mr. Gilder personified the values and qualities which have always been sought in farming.

In addition to his work in managing his own farm, James Gilder shared his expertise through his work with the Independent Co-Operative Milk Producers Association. Moreover, his commitment to his neighbors and his community was manifested in his work with the Hopkins Public School Board and the Hopkins Community Reformed Church.

He was diagnosed with cancer in June of 1982 and passed away on September 20, 1982. A wonderful man, whose life was cut short too soon.

ALBERT T. HALL

Albert Hall has truly been a teacher respected and loved by those around him. In his career as Vocational Agriculture Instructor at Lowell and Sandusky, County Agent in Sanilac County, Township Agent in Almont Township of Lapeer County and County extension Director of Hillsdale County, “Ab” has always insisted upon the highest standard for himself and has constantly striven to be the best at whatever he undertook. He has instilled in those around him the belief that they, too, could excel.

Albert Hall has given much to dairy farmers in Hillsdale, Lapeer and Sanilac Counties. We feel that it is particularly fitting that he be honored with a dairy Memorial Scholarship in his name.

Founded in 1955, the Dairy Memorial Scholarship Foundation recognizes our dairy industry leaders by contributions to a Michigan State University Scholarship Fund. All contributions are deposited in an interest bearing principal fund. The interest from the fund is used to pay tuition scholarships to worthy dairy production and dairy manufacturing students enrolled in the undergraduate program at Michigan State University. With this contribution to the Dairy Memorial and Scholarship Fund, Albert T. Hall will be instrumental in the education of future dairy leaders for the years to come.

We, the dairy farmers of Hillsdale County and Almont Township and friends of the dairy industry, take great pride in presenting this Albert T. Hall Dairy Memorial Dairy Memorial Scholarship and in causing Albert Hall to be included among those Michigan dairy leaders whose name is permanently inscribed on a bronze plaque in Anthony Hall at Michigan State University.

CARL E. HARADINE

Carl was born August 11, 1908 in Walker Township near Grand Rapids, Michigan. His parents, Arthur Haradine and Christine Hubert Haradine, were of English and German extraction respectively. Carl had one brother, Herschel, who died in 1968. Carl grew up on a farm near Sparta, Michigan, where he assisted his father in the daily operation of a dairy herd and attended to applying growing. His chores took up most of his school hours so he was not able to participate in most school activities. He graduated from Sparta High School in 1925.

Carl was unable to attend college after high school because he had to work on the farm for two years in order to save money. It was not until the "County Agent" obtained a job for him at the then Michigan State College creamery that enabled him to attend college. His parents were unable to financially help him with his college costs so he worked to get through college. In addition to the creamery job, he also worked at the college telephone exchange. He held these jobs and others for four years; working from 6 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. every other night and still managed to carry a full load of courses during the day. He was selected as one of four students from MSU to represent the college at a national dairy judging contest in Atlantic City in 1932. It was at this contest, where he won fourth place in milk, third place in cheddar cheese and first place in ice cream that enabled him to go to the University of Illinois to receive his Masters Degree in 1933 after receiving his Bachelors Degree from MSU. While at MSU, he majored in agriculture and minored in economics and dairy manufacturing.

After graduating from the University of Illinois, jobs were scarce because it was during the "Great Depression" so Carl and a fraternity brother, Bud Button, decided to seek their fortunes on the West Coast. They worked as range hands in Wenatchee, Washington, traveled to Los Angeles and other areas of the West in search of jobs. According to Carl, they saved enough money to get their 1929 Model A Roadster home, but not until they checked out a teaching job at Iowa State College. They were disappointed because the job called for a doctorate degree.

After returning from the West, he married his college sweetheart, Loise Biergans, who was also from a farm family near the Westphalia, Michigan area. They were married on December 22, 1933, in Angola, Indiana

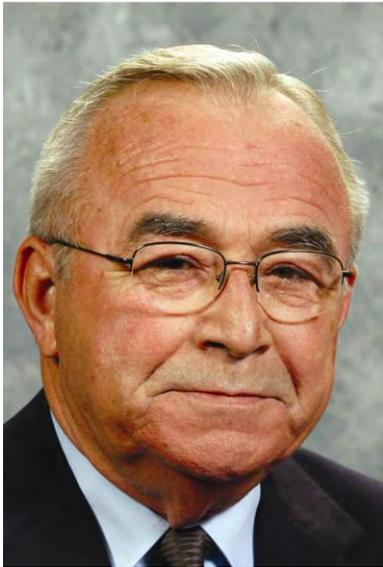

Carl's employment career always was associated with the dairy business. After marriage, he obtained a job as a milk peddler for $10 a week with the Grand Rapids Creamery and after only a few months obtained a more lucrative job with Seal Ice Cream operation in Kalamazoo. He was with Sealtest for ten years going from the position of Superintendent of Operations to Branch Manager. After leaving Sealtest, he associated himself with Ramsey Laboratories of Cleveland, which manufactured flavors for the dairy industry. He started as a salesman, and was later promoted to sales manager. When he retired on December 31, 1970 as Vice President, he returned to Three Rivers, Michigan where he and Louise currently reside.

During all of the above employment activity, Carl and Louise managed to purchase Richelieu Lodge on beautiful Corey Lake, Three Rivers, Michigan. Louise ran the day to day summer operations while Carl was away on his formal job. However, every weekend Carl somehow managed to travel to the "Lodge" from Cleveland to do maintenance and other required chores.

Carl and Louise raised three children. Daughter Betty Sarhatt, who resides at Corey Lake with her husband Larry. Also a daughter, An Langefeld, who currently resides with her husband, Donald Louis in Portage, Michigan, soon to move to Corey Lake, their son, Carl Edwin Haradine Jr., who was in the furniture manufacturing business in Elkhart, Indiana died in July of 1993. Carl and Louise also have six grand children and give great grandchildren. Carl is a past president of the Three Rivers Area Chamber of Commerce, a past member of the Kalamazoo Lions Club and a current member of the Three Rivers Rotary club, where he has a perfect attendance record.

ELWOOD KIRKPATRICK

Elwood Kirkpatrick has accomplished many notable things and received several accolades throughout his lifetime, but at the heart of it all he is “just” a dairy farmer, working hard each day to manage a dairy operation and to do his part in the organizations that support the day-to-day efforts of American dairy farmers.

Elwood grew up on his family’s dairy operation in the northern thumb of Michigan. Like many young farm boys, he thought the grass was greener off the farm. So after completing his Bachelor of Science degree at Eastern Michigan and a three-year stint in the U.S. Army, Elwood took a “professional” job as a controller at the Federal Mogul Corporation. His employment brought him to the suburbs of Detroit. After starting a family, Elwood knew that the farm offered more opportunities for him and his young family than the professional world in the suburbs. In 1966 he and his family moved back to Kinde and Elwood farmed in partnership with his father. Elwood used the experiences he had gained in college and business to help modernize the family farm. In 1979 he was elected to serve on the Michigan Milk Producers Association board of directors. In 1981 he was elected president, succeeding long-time MMPA president Glenn Lake. Elwood’s tenure as president began at a very pivotal time for the dairy industry. Through this time and the many other challenges that have surfaced over the years, Elwood has fought for policies and changes that were in the best interest of dairy farmers.

In 1980 he was elected to the board of directors of the National Milk Producers Federation. He has served on the Executive Committee of NMPF for 23 years. An example of his leadership character emerged in the late 1980s when he led the charge to unify the promotion and marketing efforts of the U.S. dairy industry, bringing together the activities of the United Dairy Industry Association and the National Dairy Board saving American dairy farmers millions of dollars and created a more effective national dairy promotion program. During the Clinton administration he served as chair of the U.S. Agricultural Technical Advisory Committee for Trade in Animals and Animal Products (ATAC). His interests in international trade led to election as the first chair of the U.S. Dairy Export Council. As the original leader of this organization, Elwood help to structure the Export Council to become the important facet of U.S. dairy marketing that it is today. While Elwood has been involved in national and international activities, he has not forgotten about the challenges on the farm in Michigan. Through the 1980s, Elwood and other leaders in Michigan animal agriculture set out on an unprecedented mission – to seek state funding to revitalize the animal agriculture of Michigan. Elwood and the other ag industry leaders were growing increasingly concerned about the long-term outlook for Michigan agriculture. They knew that in order for the industry to remain competitive with its neighboring states they needed better resources, research and education. So the committee approached the state legislators for an appropriation to revitalize the industry. In 1993, the state legislature approved and Gov.

John Engler signed a $70 million appropriation for facility improvements and faculty at Michigan State University.

Elwood's involvement in the university and extension programs was recognized in 1986 when he was named MSU's Dairy Farmer of the Year. In 1987 he received the Distinguished Service to Agriculture Award presented by MSU. Under his leadership MMPA has consolidated and modernized its manufacturing facilities and reshaped its package of member services. In 1989 MMPA entered into a marketing agreement with Leprino Foods and built two mozzarella cheese plants. Elwood's farm in Kinde has also gone through changes over the years. The herd has grown to 300 milk cows and they farm 1,200 acres of land. Elwood's sons, Dean and Ron and his daughter, Lisa, all help manage the farm.

Elwood's dedication to the dairy industry is evident in the many organizations and activities he has been involved in over the years. Elwood has made it his life's ambition to fight for dairy farmers, to see that they are understood and treated fairly at home and around the world. On March 20, 2007, Elwood retired as MMPA President, a position he held for 26 years.

CLYDE C. LONDON

Forty three years ago, in 1936, a new dairy opened its door to the Port Huron area.

Two young North Street, Michigan boys on a farm on cole road, milked their 13 cows, pasteurized it in the building they had build themselves and then delivered their first 31 quarts of milk.

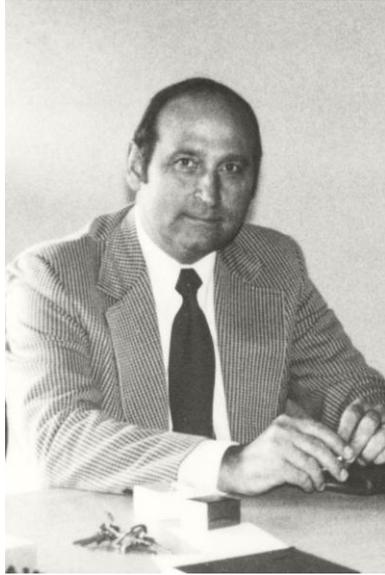

That was a big day for Clyde London, 18 and his brother, Glen 16. That's how London's Farm Dairy started as one of the 36 other dairies in the Thumb area.

Clyde and Glen London were two of a family of seven children living on the farm one mile north of North Street. Their mother had died shortly after the youngest child was born. The children and their father, Clarence London, operated the farm and struggled for existence in the desperate days of the Great Depression.

The boys decided "to go into the dairy business", staked off a site on the farm property, rolled up their sleeves and dug the excavation for the building. They installed a water line from the farm well, with the help of an uncle laid the concrete blocks.

Three months later they had sold 100 quarts in a single day. By the end of the first year sales had reached 200 quarts per day.

Today, 43 years later, London's Farm Dairy is one of the larger dairies in the state, processing milk from 7,000 cows and serving a total of 31,000 customers.

ARTHUR C. MCCOLGAN

Arthur C. McColgan was born October 16, 1930 in Saginaw, Michigan. He was the youngest of three children. His family owned and operated an ice cream in Saginaw called the M & B Ice Cream Company, which was founded in 1910 by James McColgan and Williams Boegner. It was the first ice cream company to take its product north.

Art worked throughout his high school days delivering ice cream as far as Mackinac Island and surrounding areas. Art spent the rest of his life with a dedicated and enthusiastic attitude toward the dairy industry.

Art was also an outstanding athlete in football, basketball and baseball. He ranks as one of the truly great high school athletes in the history of Saginaw sports. On the gridiron, Art was holy terror as a quarterback, running back and end. According to his coaches, you could have played him in any position and he would have excelled. On the baseball diamond, he could hit with power; but, on the basketball court Art McColgan made the most headlines. He led SS. Peter and Paul to the state finals in 1946-47-48, coming away with the state championship in '47 and runner-up honors the other two years. He scored over 40 points more than once and as high as 49 in one game. Art was unanimously voted All-State selection in 1947 and was captain of the All-State Team in 1948. After his playing days were over, he turned into one of the best football and basketball officials in the state, working several state championship contests until he retired from that avocation.

Art went on to attend Michigan State University and Villanova University. In 1949, he married his childhood sweetheart – Sue Rose Lyman. They had four children – Mike, Pat, Ann and Susan.

In 1956, he left his career with his family owned ice cream company and started his career with the Borden Company in Jackson, Michigan as an ice cream sales-man. He was an active member of the Jackson Dairy Council. In 1965, he moved to Lansing to become branch manager of the Borden Ice Cream operation. He played an active role in the community as a member of the Lansing Area Grocers and Manufacturer's representatives. In 1967, Art was promoted to Detroit to become sales manager of Detroit area and then moved on to become General Sales Manager of Michigan.

Because of his many accomplishments and hard work, he became General Manager of the Borden Ice Cream plant in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania and set all kinds of sales records. In 1977, Art was transferred back to Detroit to become General Manager of the Borden Michigan Region where, once again, he did an outstanding job. He was on the board of directors of the Dairy Council of Michigan and, at the time of his death, was president of Michigan Dairy Foods Association.

CYRIL G. SPIKE

Cyril Spike was born April 23, 1909, on a dairy farm in Gladwin, Michigan, the oldest of 11 children. Active in 4-H, he showed dairy cattle widely, attending the 1921 National Dairy Show in Detroit and winning a trip to the Eastern States Exposition in Massachusetts as Michigan's Outstanding Dairy Boy. After high school he went to work as a milk tester for DHIA for 4 years. One of the farmers had a daughter. In 1933 he married her – Myra Oulmann.

His next position was as herdsman at E.A. Hunter's DhuVarren Farms in Ann Arbor. He showed the DhuVarren Jerseys at state and national competitions in Waterloo, Dallas, Memphis, St. Louis, Columbus, Springfield and Detroit, and the DhuVarren Percherons at places like the International Livestock Show in Chicago. After one year as herdsman he moved up to manager of the farm's 250 Jerseys, 60 Percheron horses, and 28 retail milk routes. With many of the cows leased out to farms around the county, the breeding program was a problem. So, with the help of a glassblower, Cyril Spike devised some artificial insemination and collection equipment and began successfully inseminating cows in 1935 – a pioneer effort. He had been the farm manager for eleven years when Mr. Hunter died, and the farm and the cattle were sold.

Cyril Spike then moved to Traverse City to manage a dairy for Cronenweth Farms. After a year and a half he decided what he really wanted to do was study veterinary medicine at Michigan State. The problem was to get himself accepted. This was no easy task since it had been several years since he finished high school and he now had a wife and three children. The first two times he went to the Dean's office the secretary told him there was no way for him to be accepted. But on his third visit he bumped into Dean Giltner himself on his way in. The meeting ended with Cyril Spike renting the Dean's farm close to campus milking cows while he went to vet school.

He equipped the barn for 24 dairy cows. He cut hay on the land where the MSU golf course and married housing are today. He raised corn and oats on Hagadorn Road and pastured cattle on President Shaw's property on North Harrison Road. He hired other vet students to help with the farm work. He graduated with his DVM from Michigan State University in June 1945.

Simultaneously he set out to acquire the 130-acre farm where he now resides. In the 20 years to follow he developed one of the largest and finest herds of registered Jersey cattle in the State of Michigan and traveled world-wide promoting the Jersey breed. In addition to holding one of the most active veterinary practices in central Michigan Dr. Spike has distinguished himself in many other areas over the years. Some of his accomplishments include serving as a past Director of the American Jersey Cattle Club

(1962-68), past Director of the Michigan Animal Breeders' Cooperative (1956-58, 1961-69), recipient of the MSU Dairyman of the Year Award, 1964; and with his wife, Myra, recipient of the Michigan Farm Bureau Award for Distinguished Service to Agriculture, 1972. Myra was named Michigan Mother of the Year in 1976. The couple has 6 children and 24 grandchildren.

Today Spike Farms operates as a family partnership between sons Tom and Bill and their wives. The partnership farms a total of 1800 acres, and the dairy herd numbers nearly 300 Holsteins averaging over 20,000 pounds of milk. The farm is recognized as one of the industry's most modern and progressive – a tribute to the innovating, pioneering spirit of Dr. Cyril G. Spike.
