Michigan Sea Grant Extension Fellows Program for Michigan State University Graduate Students

Purpose
The Michigan Sea Grant Extension Fellows Program is designed for Michigan State University master’s or doctoral students interested in engaged scholarship for research and extension engagement within the Great Lakes Region.

The program will enable graduate students interested in community-engaged scholarship and outreach and engagement relating to global freshwater fisheries; fisheries and food security; water quality, supply, and human health; Great Lakes commerce and transportation; or telecoupled systems to develop skills for helping decision-makers and other stakeholders to clarify actions or policy options, serving as honest brokers of policy alternatives, on issues important to the sustainability of the Great Lakes Region.

Michigan Sea Grant Extension, MSU Graduate School and University Outreach and Engagement sponsor this prototype program.

Assignment
The length of the assignment is for one year, starting fall semester 2017.

Eligibility
• Interested students must represent a focus on global freshwater fisheries; fisheries and food security; water quality, supply, and human health; Great Lakes commerce and transportation; or telecoupled systems related to the mission of the Michigan Sea Grant Extension Program.
• Students must complete the seminar for MSU Graduate Certification in Community Engagement prior to or during the Fellow year.
• Students must receive a recommendation from their graduate advisor.

In addition, doctoral students must have passed their comprehensive exams and defended their dissertation proposal. They also must obtain a ¼ graduate research or teaching assistantship facilitated by their graduate advisor for the academic year.

Application process
Interested students should submit application packets to Dr. Heather Triezenberg, Michigan Sea Grant Extension specialist and program coordinator. Each application packet (single PDF) must include:
• Completed application form.
• Short curriculum vitae (not to exceed 2 pages).
• Personal statement (not to exceed 1 page) with emphasis on what the prospective fellow expects to gain from the experience for enhancing integration of research and Extension, as well as professional development and what the fellow may be able to contribute to all participants’ learning in the program.
• Recommendation form signed by adviser.

Application Deadline: Sept. 8, 2017
Selections will be made and applicants notified by early October 2017.

Award
• Recruitment Fellows for Extension Engagement (master’s and doctoral students eligible) – hourly pay or equivalent stipend up to $500 total.
• Doctoral Fellows for Extension Engagement – hourly pay or equivalent stipend up to $7,500 total.
• Once selected, Fellows may be eligible to apply for limited project or portfolio support (e.g., travel, creative works, materials production, etc.).

Network Activities
Students selected for this Fellows Program will be participants in periodic group and professional meetings to help establish a network of community-engaged graduate students and professionals interested in engaged research and extension.
