

The Office of Diversity and Pluralism Presents

First Tuesday Mixers

With Special Guest Dr. Shobha Ramanand presenting

“Graduate Research Fellowship Funding: Opportunities & Tips for Writing a Successful Application”

<http://odp.anr.msu.edu>

Shobha Ramanand is a Research Specialist in the Office of the VP Research & Graduate Studies. In her current position she works across the university to help with research facilitation and dissemination and grant proposal development. She obtained a Masters degree from MSU’s School of Human Resources and Labor Relations and her Ph.D. from CANR’s Dept. of Resource Development currently Community Sustainability. Her research focus is in knowledge-driven work, workforce diversity, and social capital development and team-based work systems. She is Co-Author along with Michael Moore and others of Knowledge-Driven Work: Unexpected Lessons from Japanese and United States Work Practices, Oxford University Press, 1998.

Brody Hall,
Large Private Dining Room

4:45 PM

Tuesday Oct. 6, 2015

<http://tinyurl.com/o4v4yqn>

First Tuesday Mixers are an opportunity for graduate students, faculty, visiting scholars, guest speakers, and peers to interact outside of the classroom— to network as well as give and receive support and advice.