Introduction to the Michigan State University Resource Center for Persons with Disabilities

The Michigan State University Resource Center for Persons with Disabilities (RCPD) is committed to providing equal access and opportunity for all students, faculty, and staff with disabilities. RCPD offers a wide range of services and resources to support individuals with disabilities in their academic, professional, and personal endeavors.

Services and Resources:

1. Accommodations: RCPD provides academic accommodations, such as note-taking services, alternative text formats, and assistive technologies.
2. Disability Awareness Workshops: RCPD conducts workshops to educate the campus community about disabilities, accessibility, and inclusivity.
3. Support Services: RCPD offers support services, including career development, life skills training, and peer mentoring.
4. Advocacy: RCPD advocates for disability rights and works to create an inclusive environment for all.
