Virus testing services for Michigan grape growers at MSU Diagnostic Services.

Following a grapevine virus survey in Michigan, several economically important viruses were detected throughout the state. These viruses have the potential to affect the sustained production of high quality grapes and wine. MSU Diagnostic Services can check the health status of your grapevines and provide a timely diagnosis of a problem you may have in your vineyard. Our team of specialists in plant pathology, nematology, entomology, and weed science works together to diagnose pest-related problems and provides appropriate recommendations of control.
