

A LETTER FROM THE HOSTS

Michigan State University and the University of Michigan are proud to co-host the inaugural Indigenous Food Sovereignty Summit (IFSS) on April 6-8, 2026, in East Lansing, Michigan. The IFSS will bring together participants to share food sovereignty initiatives, inspire learning, build community networks, and equip participants with practice skills to support and sustain just food systems. Our shared goal is to collectively define and strengthen Indigenous Food sovereignty in the Great Lakes region.

We invite you to be a part of the conference by becoming a sponsor. Being a sponsor will place your organization's name in front of our Tribal Nations across Michigan as well as Native faculty, staff, students, and community members. We appreciate your financial support and are confident that you will find value in your participation.

Sponsorship Opportunities

Sponsors will receive benefits based on their contributions as described below:

Benefits to Sponsor	GOLD $5,000	SILVER $2,500	BRONZE $1,000
Name and logo recognition during meals each day.	X	X	X
Logo acknowledgement on website, conference program, and email communications.	X	X	X
One company-supplied self-standing banner displayed at conference.	X	X
Inclusion of company-supplied literature in welcome materials.	X

Visit the conference website to learn more.