4-H Teen Leader Project

For the purpose of using the 4-H Teen Leadership materials, a 4-H teen leader will be defined as a young person who is:

- Between the ages of 13 and 19 years old by January 1 of the program year.
- Learning and developing leadership skills.
- Using his or her knowledge, skills and abilities to set and meet goals.
- Getting others involved in projects or activities.
- Practicing and applying leadership skills in various settings.
- Reflecting on his or her leadership experiences.

There are already several youth in the county who are holding the unofficial role of teen leader. Our goal this year is to have youth make it official and help to build those leadership roles they hold in their clubs and projects. Youth will complete an application and interview with 4-H staff and will attend upcoming trainings to help build their skills.

The teen leader application was just updated and is available at : <https://www.canr.msu.edu/kalamazoo/uploads/files/2019%20teen%20leader%20application%20fillable.pdf>.

We will be taking applications for those interested in broadening their leadership skill starting immediately. They can be submitted to both Veronica and Tyler at bolhuisv@msu.edu and augsttyl@msu.edu.

There will be a hands-on orientation on February 12th starting at 6pm. It will be held at the Kalamazoo County Expo Center. Pizza, snacks and beverage will be provided.

You may also be interested in attending the 4-H Leaders in Action training at the Kettunen Center on February 23 & 24th. There is more information at : http://msue.anr.msu.edu/events/4_h_teen_leaders_in_action_workshop.

There will not be a cost to youth who have completed the teen leader application prior to attending the training!

4-H Pollinators Project is happy to welcome

Conservation Biologist Sean Griffin to our February Meeting ! You do not have to be a member to join us, but please RSVP to Veronica at bolhuisv@msu.edu. 24 seats are available.

Come out February 28th at 6:30 PM

at the Great Lakes Bee Supply Store

33 W. Battle Creek St, Galesburg, MI 49053

and learn how to help our bees thrive!

Sean is a PhD student studying wild bee ecology and conservation at the MSU Kellogg Biological Station in Hickory Corners, MI. As a conservation biologist, his research focuses on finding ways to make habitat restorations better for native bees, such as changing the shape of the habitat or the flowers available to pollinators. Sean has been working with bees for over 11 years, starting with honeybees and apiculture in his undergraduate at Cornell University and switching to wild bees during his Masters at Rutgers University.

Sean has followed bees all over the country, including South Carolina, Colorado, Oklahoma, and North Dakota, but these days keeps his work much more local by studying bee communities in prairie restorations in Illinois and Michigan.

Sean is passionate about sharing conservation knowledge with the public and teaching people how they can protect pollinators in their own backyards, and is currently serving as one of the KBS Science Education and Outreach fellows.

Learn more about Sean's research on his website: www.srgriffin.com or his outreach work at: <http://www.kbs.msu.edu/2018/09/science-education-fellows-2018-19/>

A 4-H SPIN club is a combination of the concept of special interest groups with the 4-H club model. Thus the "S" and "P" is taken from special and the "I" and "N" from interest combined with clubs gets 4-H SPIN clubs.

World Food Prize Michigan Youth Institute registrations due April 1

As millions across the globe deal with food insecurity, the World Food Prize Michigan Youth Institute (WFP MIYI) offers young people an opportunity to be part of the solution. Held May 9, the event seeks to inspire and prepare the next generation of global leaders to end world hunger.

Occurring in two locations, East Lansing and Marquette/Chatham, attendees have the opportunity to share their ideas related to global food security with experts and other Michigan youth while learning how university faculty and staff members, researchers and students are working to address world hunger.

To participate, youth should be in grades 8-12 and register by the April 1 deadline. As part of the registration process, youth are required to prepare a two- to five-page research paper about one of twenty grand global challenges which are related to food, hunger and poverty. At the event, youth present and discuss their papers with other attendees and research and industry experts. They also participate in interactive activities related to global food challenges and engage with area experts to discuss solutions to global hunger and poverty.

The top performing students at the WFP MIYI will be selected to attend the World Food Prize Global Youth Institute in Des Moines, Iowa, in October. For more information, visit <https://>
