Integrating and Sustaining Financial Capability Services in Rural Healthcare Delivery

Suzanne Bartholomae (Iowa State University)
Michael Collins (University of Wisconsin)
Carol Janney (Michigan State University)
Carrie Johnson (North Dakota State University)
Elizabeth Kiss (Kansas State University)

December 12, 2019 – 3:00 PM (ET)

http://ncrcrd.adobeconnect.com/ncrcrd1

About the webinar:
Although financial capability support services are available in many rural communities, financial education, coaching, and related programs are not well integrated into health systems. This project explores rural healthcare providers’ perspectives on screening patients for financial difficulties, as well the potential of sustaining these services. This project helps inform strategies to support financial capability service integration into rural health systems.

Presented by:
Elizabeth Kiss is an Associate Professor and extension specialist in the School of Family Studies and Human Services at Kansas State University. She assists in the development and delivery of a statewide Cooperative Extension program focused on developing the financial knowledge and skills for sound financial decision-making of Kansans. Her expertise is in framing, developing, and evaluating extension educational programs in the areas of family resource management and personal finance.

Suzanne Bartholomae is an Assistant Professor in the College of Human Sciences at Iowa State University. She is a Family Finance Extension State Specialist in the Human Development & Family Studies.
