

grapes.msu.edu

HomeAbout UsSearchNewslettersWeather / ClimateViticulturePest managementScouting guidePublicationsCalendar of eventsIndustry linksContacts

Download Adobe Acrobat Reader to view pdf files.

Ichneumonids

Rufus Isaacs, MSU Entomology

Home > Scouting guide> ichneumonids

Braconids and ichneumonids are small black, orange or yellow wasps that prey on immature insects such as grape berry moth larvae. Adults are less than 10 mm long, and many species are found in vineyards.

Additional information

- About natural enemies (from Fruit Crop Ecology and Management)
- More about ichneumonids (From Identifying natural enemies)

Site mapCopyright/Linking

Funding for this web site provided by Project GREEN, American Farmland Trust, EPA Region 5's Strategic Agricultural Initiative program, The National Foundation for IPM Education, the Center for Agricultural Partnerships and the MSU Integrated Pest Management Program in collaboration with MSU Extension and the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. Partially support from NC-IPM Center.

Updated 12/20/07 Contact: E. Haney